

Last Word

"The New Town of York" condominium (MTCC 573) c. 1981, as seen from the intersection of King Street and George Street. City of Toronto Archives Fonds 1526, File 65, Item 80

The Past and the Present

In keeping with our spring theme Then and Now, we came across a very unique corporation website. It's an excellent tool that combines detailed local history and archival photos with unit owner education and practical condo information.

"We try quite hard to educate our owners with all aspects of the website including a very detailed history of our local downtown area and our monthly Highlights (emailed to all residents and accessible on the website) and find this makes our community run far more smoothly" says David Crawford, the website designer and Board Secretary. "The website also acts as our 'memory,' and it's a place to which we and our superintendent can refer residents and potential purchasers. The website is maintained on the free (and simple) Google Sites' service but we decided to pay for a more easily remembered URL www.mtcc573.ca. The Google sites URLs are much longer."

Looking north up George Street in 1922.
City of Toronto Archives/TTC Fonds, Series 71, Item 1542
(Sideview work car W-6 – November 21, 1922)
